

The Feminist... Continued from Previous Issue.

...worship" as a replacement for Christianity. Indeed, not only witchcraft, but goddess worship has become a major component of feminist activity all over the country. Margot Adler, a modern witch, points out in Bringing Down the Moon that it is now time for the sisters to go out and do the magic circle and summon the goddess.

Speaking at an event that The Los Angeles Times on March 16, 1982, billed as "Goddesses of Coming New Age Probe the Meaning of It All," Spretnak and other New Age feminists resolved that churches should either adopt New Age beliefs or be shut down. One backdoor approach in bringing this about is to give New Age definitions to Christian doctrinal terms (i.e. atonement means at-one-ment with the divine.)

Modern feminists are rediscovering the great goddess. Certainly nothing can seem to lift a woman's self-esteem more than becoming a goddess. That indeed appears to be one solution to "problems of self-worth and identity." To them it vindicates the feminine in a universe where too much male principle seems to be operative. If the goal is judicial equality in society, then the same alternative must be applied to the cosmos. Followers of the goddess say that a male deity must be counterbalanced with a female counterpart. It only makes sense in an era of judicial egalitarianism. It also brings back androgyny.

Starhawk, priestess of the Old Religion of the Goddess, is one of witchcraft's leading ambassadors. An instructor at Matthew Fox's Institute for Culture and Creation, she and others who share her pagan persuasions have been teaching wiccan rituals and the "positive" side of witchcraft in church groups and seminaries across the country. "Witchcraft is ... perhaps the oldest religion existent in the West," writes Starhawk in The Spiritual Dance, a manual on witchcraft which is also used in Women's Studies in colleges, universities and even in some seminaries.

Increasingly, we see the followers of Wicca, a pagan religion which worships nature, the Earth goddess and so forth gaining respect in society. Wicca followers are changing the public's perception of them. They claim they are not Satanists because they don't even believe in Satan. Despite the fact that Wicca, another name for witchcraft, is indeed occultism, the pagan religion is gaining respect in society because of its respect for the planet and environmental concerns.

Zealous protectors of the environment, witches view the earth as the physical manifestation of the Goddess. To them, the earth is the sacred body of the goddess, whose life-force flows through everything. The model of the Goddess...fosters respect for the sacredness of all living things. Witchcraft can be seen as a religion of ecology. Its goal is harmony with nature, so that life may not just survive, but thrive.

It would appear that the feminist movement has bought the oldest lie. Like Eve, who ate the forbidden fruit at the invitation of the serpent with the promise that she would become as a god and never die, it is again women as part of the feminist movement, who has again been deceived by Satan, and is trying to pass on the forbidden fruit.

MADONNA

Source: <http://www.goodfight.org>

While the news media did report extensively on Madonna kissing Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera, there was something quite significant about the event that went largely unreported.

The MTV event was in fact a mock lesbian wedding. There was a "wedding chapel" in the set. Madonna was dressed as the butch lesbian, as she was in a tux with a top hat, and Britney and Christina were in the role as the more feminine lesbians. As Madonna stood at the top of a staircase waiting to walk down the isle to Britney and Christina, the traditional wedding march began. It was after they met at the end of the isle and danced that they kissed one another to bring a climax to the wedding. Together they sang at the end of the song that they are tired of the "concept of right and wrong." This is evidence enough that there is a serious agenda afoot to destroy the God designed institution of marriage and exchange it with that which is contrary to nature and the Word of God! Around the same time as Madonna and Britney's mock lesbian wedding, Madonna purchased a 13 thousand dollar diamond studded necklace for Britney. The Necklace features the initial "B" for Britney. Madonna has a corresponding necklace with the initial "M". Madonna has not publicly acknowledged that this had anything to do with their mock lesbian marriage.

Bob Pittman, Founder and former President of MTV, made a startling admission. Pittman outlined a simple two-point plan whereby MTV would be able to accomplish its objective in the ownership of your children. The plan was basic, (1) "Get their emotions going" . (2) "Make them forget their..."

Madonna...

...logic". Pittman then calculated, MTV will "own" our children. This is no more than a basic subversive brain washing technique. Pittman had the brazen audacity to admit:

"The strongest appeal you can make is emotionally. If you can get their emotions going, make them forget their logic, you've got them. AT MTV, WE DON'T SHOOT FOR THE 14-YEAR OLDS, WE OWN THEM". (MTV is Rock Around the Clock, Philadelphia Inquirer, Nov. 3, 1982)
 MTV has come a long way in leading millions of impressionable youth down the greased pole to hell.

Satan and the legion of demonic beings that do his bidding have used MTV and countless pop stars to promote musical terrorism. Though it is heart breaking, it is par for the course to see Madonna engaged in a lesbian act with Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera on the MTV music awards.

Madonna is aware that she is promoting homosexuality to millions of impressionable young people. Madonna admitted to a homosexual magazine that she employs this technique as a means to desensitize viewers, who would at first be disgusted with homosexuality, into accepting homosexuality as normative. Madonna declared: "They digest it on a lot of different levels. Some people will see it and be disgusted by it, but maybe they'll be unconsciously aroused by it. If people keep seeing it and seeing it and seeing it, eventually it's not going to be such a strange thing" (The Advocate, May 7, 1991, pg.49)

We would be foolish to believe that the promotion of lesbianism by Madonna, Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera on MTV is nothing less than part and parcel of a subversive plan to erode what is left of the lingering vestiges of morality in our nation.

If Pepsi gave millions of dollars to Madonna to drink Pepsi knowing that they would have a huge influence on the masses to buy their product, what kind effect can we expect upon the youth of our nation when they view their top icons promoting lesbianism? Sadly, Madonna kissed both Britney and Christina with far more passion than she drank her Pepsi.

Why would Satan go to such lengths to promote homosexuality among our youth?

The answer is simple. God created sex to be enjoyed in the confines of marriage between a man and a woman. Homosexuality is defiant against God's natural law. Satan knows that in promoting homosexuality he is able to further perpetuate mankind's increasing rebellion against God. Moreover, he is more effectively able to eternally damn unwitting souls. God's word warns that homosexuals will not inherit the kingdom of God (1 Corinthians 6:9-11) but will be sentenced to the lake of fire (Revelation 21:8).

Thank God there is hope for those who turn from their rebellion against God to Jesus Christ who died and rose to save them from their sins.

Dear visitor, Your life is precious to God and to us. It doesn't matter how bad you have been, God loves you and laid His life down on the cross to suffer the penalty you and I deserve. Your life will soon end and you will stand before God to be sentenced to heaven or hell for eternity. Choose life and turn from your sins to Christ. Matthew 7:13-14.
